

Mr. Baseball smiles down from Heaven as our Brewers win Maricopa's and Talossa's first World Series

Taglheiria – With an out to first, the Milwaukee Brewers are the world champions of baseball.

“The Rays scored in the bottom of the ninth inning when Hicks and Simpson hit doubles, but Megill induced Richie Palacios to ground out, concluding the game, series, and season, giving the Brewers their first championship in franchise history.^[83] The Brewers finished with a 114–61 overall record, the fourth-best combined record in MLB history.^[84] William Contreras was awarded the World Series Most Valuable Player Award after hitting .381 with four RBIs, throwing out runners on four stolen base attempts, and going 10-for-13 on ABS challenges.^[85]”¹

GV in putting together this issue of Oraclâ wonders at how relatively difficult it was to pull up images of the deciding Game 5, but whatever. Brewers win, and Maricopa (my old province) rejoices!²

2 GV also rejoices at a great reason to put out this first Oraclâ since June 2015.
